THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

No Room On The Left

Washington, Nov. 24.—ON the Republican National committee will meet in Chicago to make plans for the 1946 and 1948 campaigns. And the Republican leaders of New York also will meet to map out their fight for the year. Some of these Republicans recently were asking for questions for a program.

THIS connection, it is interesting that the increasingly important in politics which the new party in New York—the American party or party and the Liberal party—say nothing of the Communist party—are coming to play has brought out more clearly than before the necessity for the maintenance of the two-party system. It is, if the nation is to remain united.

ANY rate, such is the view of thoughtful men who feel that lack of character and sense among the national Republicans which led them in three campaigns to imitate the New Deal foolishly bid for the support of so-called "liberals" and pro-labor leaders stands in the way of a strong two-party system that damages the national interests and paralyzes party progress. Their argument seems sound, democratic governments, it is continued on Page Two

STILL THE PROBLEM

Probably it will not seem of great importance to most consumers that the OPA has decided to remove price controls from some paper products along with controls on additional metals and a number of other items. Even stationery, which is on the list, is not much of a factor in what the OPA constantly harps on as the "cost of living."

But it is significant that the OPA has taken this action with respect to an impressive number of products on the ground that supply and demand is now balanced or that living and business costs will not be affected. The inference is that the reconversion process is going on even though it has not yet provided such things as automobiles and washing machines and mechanical refrigerators in appreciable quantities.

Certainly progress is being made. It is hard to measure it from day to day, but in the three months since the Japanese surrendered many of the things Americans buy have begun to appear on the shelves again. There are still shortages of much needed goods, beyond any question, and at times it seems that some of them are growing worse instead of better. Yet things are moving, in a way.

And they will continue to move if American industry is able to produce as it knows how to do. Given the willing hands to tend the machines, the factories will turn out the products to supply the nation's needs. The biggest cloud on the horizon is still strikes and threats of strikes. The biggest problem the nation faces is how to remove that cloud.

WRITING BY THE MILL

A fountain pen is being manufactured in England which contains enough ink to draw a line twelve miles long. It is being produced primarily for export. Presumably a twelve-mile line in England is impracticable.

The pen is of traditional size, but the average writer will find it necessary to fill it only once a year. The pen was designed to enable pilots to write at heights at which ordinary pens might blow up.

This development in pens is more important than it might seem. If there is one task that the average person, whether desk worker or citizen who carries his signature around with him in his pocket, hates it is that of filling a pen. Ingenuity has made such progress that the filling job is not as arduous as formerly. But the new British pen should meet with a hearty reception from all pen users who dislike even the most minute maintenance work.

A pen that will travel twelve miles in a straight line should satisfy the scribbler who carries a pen to address postcards to the folks back home or to put his name on a check now and then.

Democratic Chairman Hannegan, who says New York City is the political weather vane of the nation, may discover that voters in other sections rely on a different weather man.

and women, and likewise veterans who are hospitalized in Pennsylvania, will find their Christmas a much more cheerful one than it otherwise would be through cooperation of the public and the American Legion.

Lying on hospital beds or confined to wheel chairs, those women and men who answered their country's call to duty will be made happy not at the receipt of the gifts alone, but to know that someone remembers and cares.

Eddie Cantor is again sponsoring the program of "Gifts for the Yanks who Gave." The American Legion posts are serving as depositories for the presents.

Suggestions made for gifts for G. I. and G. I. Joe are: Books, such as mysteries, classics, Bibles, comics, humor (pocket-size books preferred); stationery; games; fountain pens, pencils, pencil sharpeners, paste, soaps, cleansing tissue, bath towels, bedroom slippers, identification bracelets, sun glasses, wash cloths.

G. I. Joe will also be pleased with razor blades, hair conditioner, pocket combs, shaving soaps, sleeveless sweaters, tee shirts, billfolds, socks, pipes, pipe cleaners, pocket knives.

And G. I. Joe will say "thanks" for: Scarfs, bandannas, bed socks, elastic by the yard, safety pins, cellophane bags, yarn and sewing equipment, baby pins, hair pins and nets, clothes pins, skirt hangers, cosmetics, deodorants, make-up mirrors, and the like.

Each package should be marked for "G. I. Joe" or "G. I. Joe" and may be left at the Backen Post Home, 619 Radcliffe street, Allen Lebo.

Sellersville Will Have A New Industry

nylon. Except for brief periods during the conversion periods and shortages, the plant worked continuously on a three-shift schedule.

Plans for expansion at the Perkaskie plant were discussed early this year but it was learned that certain rights of way precluded the use of the area necessary for a larger building. When the owners learned of the availability of the Sellersville tract they closed the deal. The plot is located on Clymer avenue at Station road.

Tentative plans call for a thoroughly modern plant, largely of glass block construction and so designed that expansion may be made at a minimum of expense.

Bids will be asked as soon as plans and specifications are completed.

The Perkaskie building will be sold.

pointed out, set up in Europe after the first World War, failed largely because they could not concentrate into two major parties. They degenerated into block governments, survived for a few years through compromise and negative action. Then they died. But it is urged, the basic purpose of two major parties is much wider than this. They must present alternative programs and issues. It is only thus that our revolutions are at the ballot box and not by street mobs.

THE NATURAL division between men to private life is conservatism and radicalism. Today, with us, the radicals on the "left" are organized and vigorous; the conservatives on the "right" are unorganized and impotent. The American people have a right to an organized expression of conservative thought. It is no time to be a conservative. Neither is it "fascism" nor "reaction." A conservative is not allergic to new ideas. He only wants to try them out slowly and without destroying what we have that is good.

IN THE past twelve years the Democratic party has pre-empted the radical field. And the radical parties are infected with bureaucracy, with socialism and communism. During this time the Republican party has been divided and uncertain. If the Republicans really believe in the two-party system and want to prevent the disintegration of their own party, it is argued, they would at once take the conservative position and gladly declare it. The Democrats completely hold the radical fort. There is no room for the Republicans in it and no position to the left of it. Republicans have tried to compromise, they have tried to outdo the radicals in promises and they have straddled repeatedly. The results have been bad for the party and bad for the country. If they continue along these lines the Republican party will as certainly disappear as did the old Whig party.

EVENTUALLY, a conservative party will come into power as a result of radical excesses and accumulated blunders which are inevitable for any party too long in power. The Republicans should take the conservative position without apologies but with pride in conservative principles and the service they offer the country. It is absurd to be afraid of the word. Whatever party opposes the radicals will be moved. That is the radical technique, but it is losing its effectiveness. Soon or late the American people as a whole see through the rears.

states," and in every way have full power to raise or lower the allocation without having to explain to anyone.

The agency would "lay down minimum national standards," subject to which the entire program would operate. Through these "standards," especially those over civil service, existing Federal agencies have been extremely successful in seeing, for example, that Democrats get most of the jobs and most of the promotions.

The authority of withholding Federal aid, coupled with the right to make, amend, relax, interpret and apply a different set of standards for every community, and varying standards in the same community under Democratic and Republican administrations, would give the agency power to dictate all of the expenditures and most of the payroll in every community concerned.

How absurd to speak of "decentralization," as the President does, and to say States and local governments would run the program, when the Federal agency could, without appeal, shut down the whole local development any time it wished, on a technicality it wouldn't need to explain!

If President Truman really believes, as he says, that the program is "highly decentralized," then he has been grievously misinformed. It would be a tight bureaucratic dictatorship over the biggest payroll and largest expenditures ever centralized in one small, appointed group.

The proposal as the President outlined it is the most bankruptcy-bound piece of Communistic scheming ever laid seriously before our national Congress.

THE REPUBLICANS should stop shrinking from the charge that they are not "liberal." Let the radicals have that word. It has been thoroughly polluted. It has been robbed of all its real meanings. The Socialists, the Communists, the labor bosses and the crackpots of every variety daily announce that they are "liberals." They have nested in the word until it smells very badly. It no longer makes sense.

ADVANCE TIPS on Fuel Saving

Spare the poker!

IT'S a great temptation—and a lot of fun—to stir up a fire with the poker. But remember that it only stirs up TROUBLE. Ramming a poker into the fire bed mixes ashes with coal . . . "Clinkers" and poor heat are the inevitable result. And here are some other tips: 1. Keep a deep bed of fuel. 2. Keep fire door closed except when firing. 3. Stop shaking the instant you see a red glow in the ash pit. 4. Fire furnace at regular intervals.

Fuel Saving Starts With CONTROL. Ask us about getting an Automatic Heat Regulator—the "electric brain" that adjusts dampers—saves basement loss.

YOUTH LEAGUE OPENS FOR SEASON; CADETS APPEAR

Ramblers Defeat Fifth Ward
By the Score of 64 to 31

FRANKLIN WINS GAME

3rd Ward Eagles Go Down
To Defeat in Opening Contest

The Bristol Youth Basketball League opened its second season last night with two games on the Mutual Aid floor. In the first tilt, the Ramblers pulverized the Fifth Ward Sports, 64-31, while the second encounter saw the Franklin team drub the Third Ward Eagles, 47-25.

The first ball to inaugurate the season was tossed up by Justice of the Peace Arthur P. Brady. "Henny" Morgan and "Mike" DeRisi, Lower Bucks County sports officials, spoke a few words to the audience and the American Legion cadets paraded to the court as part of the ceremonies. They occupied seats in the balcony. Several members of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, added color to the ceremonies by appearing in their uniforms.

It was too much Freddie Costantini and DeLise in the first game of the evening. This pair of Ramblers scored 32 points in the triumph with both having eight field goals. Behind them, came Pierandozzi who garnered six double-deckers and a foul.

The Ramblers had the lead from the start with the Sports tagging along slowly until the third period when the Rams scored 24 points and held the Sportsmen to a single field goal.

The fast Franklin team was too much for the Eagles who were outplayed in every department of the game. The Franklin boys could have rolled up a bigger margin after getting a commanding lead but chose to increase the efficiency of their passing.

"Reds" Feole, "Toby" Oriola, and "Sonny" Fields led the Franks to the triumph with Mari doing a fine guarding game. Rodgers and McGerg were outstanding for the losers.

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE TO HOLD BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Trenton Industrial League will be held this evening at the Club Condado, Trenton. Two Bristol teams, Voltz-Texaco and Fleetwings, are among the six teams to be present.

"Tommy" Richardson, president of the Eastern League, will be the main speaker and the batting championship award will be given to Don Pugliese. The leading pitcher award will go to Lonny Heister, of the J. A. Roebing team.

"Eddie" Sullivan, of the Voltz-Texaco team, finished first in batting with an average of .438 but as Eddie did not go to the plate at least 100 times, Pugliese will be given the championship with his average of .407.

Earlier in the season, the managers of the teams, agreed that the batting championship should go to a player having at least 100 at bats. "Vic" Rockhill, also of Voltz-Texaco, finished high among the leading hitters with an average of .374, having 46 hits in 137 times at bat. Sullivan had 35 hits in 80 times up. "Teddie" Tosti had the best Fleetwings' average with a .302 while George Ritter, Voltz-Texaco, finished the season with .190.

The above were the only players from this section appearing at the plate 100 times or more.

Will Return Bodies

Ice men killed overseas appeared certain to be passed by the House on Dec. 10.

number were 26,658 listed as missing, some of whom may be dead.

Cost per body for the entire operation was estimated at between seven and eight hundred dollars. After the first World War, shipment of 46,700 bodies to the United States cost twenty million dollars. The program was not finished until 1921.

Objections by Rep. Cole (R), N. Y., to phrasing of the bill—not its merits—which was introduced by Rep. Sikes (D) Fla., postponed its passage yesterday for two weeks.

The New Yorker said that he would voice no objection to the legislation when it goes before the House a second time. Unanimous consent is required.

In outlining the War Department's new program, an Army spokesman said that "we are going at the job as fast as possible and the first bodies will be brought home for burial in about four months."

He declined to predict how long the operation would take, saying that "it will be a continuing process as in the case of demobilization."

Remains of Army, Navy and Marine personnel who made the supreme sacrifice will be placed in caskets, most of which must be shipped to overseas theatres from America.

The spokesman said that this factor in addition to converting ships for use in bringing the still fighters back to America will slow down operations.

Under the War Department program army teams will start in particular areas—the European theater first—to locate graves of the men; to search for unburied bodies; and to register and identify all of them. Pending legislation would provide an appropriation to cover whatever expenditures are necessary.

Next of kin of the deceased soldiers, marines and sailors will be contacted for burial directions and Mrs. Arthur H. Brown and chil-did not point the gun at Mrs. McLaughlin and pull the trigger."

When cross-examination started Willard Curtin, Esq., assistant district attorney, asked Mrs. Ryan why she walked her dog toward Silver Lake if she was afraid of the Mexicans. In reply the defendant said this was because she never walked her dog where there were other dogs, "because I had lost a dog once by hydrophobia."

Questions then followed thus:

Curtin: "What kind of pictures were in the car?"

Mrs. Ryan: "Six portraits of myself."

Curtin: "How did they get there?"

Mrs. Ryan: "I saw Mr. McLaughlin put them there."

Curtin: "Was that when you trained dogs?"

Mrs. Ryan: "Yes."

Curtin: "Where did you train dogs?"

Mrs. Ryan: "In the field."

Boro' Governments Must Fight Encroachments

Borough governments face the problem of preventing State and National governments from encroaching on their duties, warned Harold F. Alderfer, Director of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs of the Department of Internal Affairs, in a speech before the members of the Montgomery County Boroughs Association recently.

"Borough governments face annihilation at the hands of spending governments," he declared. "By these means the State and National units encroach on our powers as we are often glad to get rid of the responsibilities of a function by giving it to an agency with more money available."

"But borough government has lasted for over a thousand years. It is a sound institution."

He advised that certain functions of the local government should be streamlined to keep up with modern trends and pointed out that this task is now under way with the proposed revision of the borough code.

The speaker said boroughs face the problem of obtaining additional revenue but not from real estate which is carrying the load at present. The State has made a start in this direction by allocating certain funds based on road mileage in the communities, he pointed out.

"Local governments need more money as they face post-war problems of sewage disposal, airport development and modern roadway the speaker added.
